Polish Vessel Is Allowed To Depart

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—Gerhart Eisler's getaway ship, the Polish liner Batory, sailed at noon today after her crew was cleared of any implication in his escape.

Paris. The informant said Molotov was given the task of shaping and carrying out a Soviet "Big Brother" attitude toward the emerging Chinese regime.

In effect, the move could mean the Kremlin has initiated a policy of giving all possible help in political and economic fields to the Chinese Communists in an effort to turn industrially poor, sprawling China into a modern state.

On the other hand, there have been suggestions from some western quarters that Mao Tse-Tung, the Communist leader, might have nationalistic ideas such as those of Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, which have drawn the fire of Russia and the lesser Communist nations.

The nature of Molotov's work has been a matter of speculation since Moscow announced March 4 that he was being succeeded as foreign minister by his first deputy, Andrei I. Vishinsky.

John L. Lewis' Conviction On Charge Of Contempt Upheld By U. S. Court

Man Shoots Self In Bottle-Strewn Galveston Room

GALVESTON, June 6.—(AP)—A young Chicago man heard a sermon on faithfulness and then shot himself in the chest in a Galveston hotel apartment yesterday, his woman companion told police.

Detective Chief William J. Burns identified the dead man as Robert Emmett Benjamin, 33, of Crystal Lake, Ill., and Chicago. He said the woman in the Galveston hotel apartment yesterday, his woman companion told police.

Other guests in their Galveston beach apartment hotel heard a shot and broke into the room to find Benjamin dead on the floor, shot through the heart.

Benjamin had been working as a drugstore clerk in Crystal Lake until recently. His widow, Audrey, is the daughter of James H. Jones, wealthy owner of a Chicago printing and bookbinding firm. Benjamin also had two sons, Robert, Jr., 1, and Bruce, 2.

Mrs. Pfeiffer's husband, John, won a divorce in Illinois on grounds of adultery and was custody of their child, Marilyn, 5. Pfeiffer owns a trucking and excavating business in Crystal Lake.

Benjamin was a cavalry lieutenant in World War II. He was captured in Italy but escaped. He was wounded four times in France and Italy and spent a year in hospitals. He was awarded several decorations, including the Silver Star.

"Appeasement" Is Term Attributed To Agent Of FBI

Soviet Purchasing Agent Identified In Testimony

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP)—A one-armed rubber repairman who helped trap a wartime Russian spy testified today an FBI agent told him the department wanted to "appease" the Red operative.

The witness, before the house Un-American activities committee, was Joseph J. Franey of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Franey, employed by the Hooker Electrochemical Co., served as photographer and deliveryman. Mrs. Franey got the documents from the Bell Aircraft Company, Buffalo, where she was librarian, and Franey delivered them to the spy.

The Franeys related how they worked with the FBI in feeding information to the Russians under FBI supervision.

The Russian was identified as a Soviet purchasing agent named Andrei Schevchenko.

Franey said Schevchenko instructed him to deliver rolls of 35-millimeter film to him in New York. The Russian supplied a camera and the film, Franey explained, and Franey photographed the documents at his home.

Two deliveries were postponed at the request of the FBI, Franey told the committee. He said he protested the first time because of an "entire operation was 'pretty nerve wracking'."

Franey said he objected even more strongly at the second delivery, but was told the FBI had instructions from the state department to "hold up" on the surveillance of Schevchenko. Franey said an FBI agent told him the department wanted to "appease him."

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), presiding, asked Franey which FBI agent he told him that.

"It was agent Roberts," Franey replied.

Walter asked for Roberts' first name, and Franey said he did not remember it.

"We called him Fuzz Roberts," he said.

Before the committee met, officials connected with it said there were signs that two of the highest officials of the government may have intervened to prevent the arrest and prosecution of the Russian on grounds, a diplomatic right should be avoided.

Earlier, Mrs. Franey told how the Russian tried to get secret reports from a B-29 jet engines and swept-back wings.

She said he asked for highly confidential reports from the national advisory committee for aeronautics by the name of even before they reached the library of the Buffalo war plant.

Mrs. Franey related under oath how she and her husband worked with the FBI to turn over microfilm copies of some of the reports the Russian wanted.

She said the idea was to work up gradually into confidential and restricted reports so that the man could be arrested and prosecuted for having information in his possession.

Chambers Claims Another Source In Government

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—Whittaker Chambers, former Red spy courier, today named a "Julian Wadleigh" as another source in the alleged filing of secret state department papers.

Chambers' statement was made under cross-examination in the case of Alger Hiss, former state department official accused of perjury. Chambers, key government witness in the case, has claimed Hiss fed him secret government papers for passage to a Communist spy ring.

His reference to another alleged collaborator in government circles came when defense counsel referred to earlier testimony today in which Chambers said he had another state department "source" who was not Hiss.

The attorney, Lloyd Paul Stryker, asked him: "This man who was collaborating with you in the state department—can you tell us his name?"

"His name is Julian Wadleigh," replied Chambers.

(Henry Julian Wadleigh, a former state department man, was accused last year in testimony before the House Hiss committee of carrying U. S. secrets to Communist agents. Wadleigh later declined to comment on the charges.)

Under questioning that he testified at one time he had no "independent recollection" of who gave him microfilm of secret government papers, Chambers said the microfilm was considered major evidence in the Hiss trial.

The cardinal upon the holly.
My rival never raised his head.
No time for beauty he'd allow.
The while we gazed I saw a cloud
Shall slowly on a sea of blue.
The other fellow's head stayed bowed.
Though there was loveliness so view.
I said: 'Tis a glorious day
And there, are splendid scenes to see.'
Not once he'd let his vision stray.
His heart was set on beating me.
I saw the beauty, near and far.
The other fellow missed it all.
He'd rather shoot each hole in par.
He kept his eye upon the ball.

SUICIDES OF WAR

The suicide of James Forrestal, former secretary of defense, recalls that the same tragic fate befell John G. Winant, our war - time ambassador to Great Britain. In several other countries there have been notable suicides of national figures in the period of the war and its aftermath. No other war in history has exacted so much of this form of toll, but no other war was so overwhelming.
The volume of immediate sympathetic comment which followed the Forrestal death, all over the nation, showed a widespread comprehension of the terrific strain under which many such men as Forrestal have labored in the national crisis, and of the inevitable effects on body and mind. Nevertheless it is fair to say that most persons do not understand at all the state of mind of a suicide. Few doctors and psychiatrists really understand it.
This failure to understand the suicidal frame of mind is no doubt one of the important reasons why there are about 16,000 suicides in America every year. Each of these suicides had his own reasons for choosing death in preference to life. Most of the lives of suicides could be saved if the people around them were only able to detect and understand the process of mind which leads to the desire to die.

NATIVE-BORN

What is a natural-born citizen of the United States? It might seem that by simple definition this would be a person born in the United States or in possessions where citizenship has been granted. But what of persons born elsewhere to American parents?
This question has been raised with fresh interest because as soon as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., won a seat in congress, in the recent special election in New York City, people started talking about the possibility of a political career leading to the presidency. The Constitution says only a natural-born citizen can be president, and young Roosevelt was born in Canada, at a summer home his parents were then living in. In some quarters it was immediately concluded that he could not therefore dream of the presidency.
But Washington newspaper correspondents began digging around in Supreme Court files and found references to no less than three old nationality laws indicating that a child born to American parents in another country is, in the eyes of the law, a natural-born citizen. Just seven years ago a Maryland court ruled, on the basis of a 1940 law, that there are only two kinds of citizens, natural-born and naturalized. Children born abroad to American parents do not have to be naturalized, so by this Maryland ruling they must therefore be natural-born.
All of which goes to show that things are not always what they seem, and the law, often regarded as rigid and inexorable, really is flexible and constantly changing, not in the words which make laws but in the meaning ascribed to the words.

FUTURE OF GILGIT

In this troubled world there are advantages in living where no one can get at you. This applies to Gilgit in Central Asia, at the meeting point of Afghanistan, China, India, Pakistan and Russia. It lies in the valley of the upper Indus River, between peaks that range from 15,000 to 25,000 feet high. The only access is by a three-week tolls ride over snowy passes, or by plane to landing fields that are unsafe in the highest degree.

Gilgit figures in the news just now because of the uncertainty as to its national fealty. It used to belong to Kashmir, would like to belong to Pakistan, and is claimed by India. As the population of 100,000 is chiefly Mohammedan, probably the decision will be in favor of Pakistan. Meanwhile the inhabitants apparently can rest secure in the knowledge that no one will attempt a modern blitzkrieg through the ancient mountain passes.

Storage Loans On Navarro County's Grains Approved

Government farm storage loans for Navarro county's oats, wheat and barley growers have been approved by the State Production and Marketing Administration. Triple A Executive Bob Cliche announced Monday.
This, in effect, means that Navarro county farmers will be assured of 75 cents a bushel for their 1949 crop, expected to be nearly a half-million bushels.
The county committee, headed by George Ward of Blooming Grove, requested the government program. Cliche announced. Between 7,000 and 10,000 acres of oats are believed to have been sown in the county this year.
Cliche expressed belief that most farmers in the county have sufficient storage facilities for their grain.
The government rules call for weather-proof storage, located in the immediate vicinity of an inhabited place, or residence, and the Empire of oats also must not contain more than 13 1/2 percent moisture.
Cliche said further information on the program could be obtained at his office. The necessary forms and equipment have not been received yet. They are expected in about two weeks, he added.
The storage loans are redeemable on April 30, 1950. If not redeemed, the government will pay the price of oats goes above 75 cents, then the farmer can sell his crop, pay the loan and pocket the difference.
In effect, the program amounts to a government guarantee that the farmer will get 75 cents a bushel for his oats, provided the farmer meets the storage loan qualifications and regulations.

MISS LUCILLE MIDDLETON IS WED TO CLIFF C. TURNER, JR. IN KINSLOE HOUSE CEREMONY

The double-ring rites, illumined by tapers in tall, branched candelabras tied with bows of wide, white satin ribbon, followed a parade of appropriate music by Miss Lena Mae McClure, pianist. "O Promise Me" and "Because" were pre-nuptial selections, and traditional marches were used.

LEGISLATURE

 4. Deduct $5,000,000 from the soil conservation bill (the senate passed the original house measure from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000).
 Horney and Wagonseller said the combined deductions could total $48,119,970. The resolution would have to be approved by both house and senate to have effect. Whether the scheme would keep the state from going into debt remained in doubt. Senator James E. Taylor of Kerens last week issued financial analysis in which he forecast a deficit of $74,000,000 if all proposed spending were approved.

House-senate conference committees were expected to get to work on three major bills as the legislature headed into its 22nd week today.

The committees will strive to settle differences between the house and senate on the two-year appropriation bills providing funds for state departments, state courts, and state-supported colleges.

No committee has been named yet to work on the touchy subject of how much to spend for operation of state eleemosynary institutions and construction of new state hospitals.

Conference compromises on "must" money bills often take from two to three weeks or longer to be worked out, and it was likely this would hold true this year on one or two of the measures.

Conference committees is the place where much of the so-called "back-slash" work is done when senate and house members clash over individual items in the appropriation bills.

With a number of legislators trying to get away to take their families home (now that Austin's school term is over) and others planning to leave for National Guard camp or summer school at colleges over the state, attendance at house and senate sessions appeared headed for a decline.

ATOMIC

 leopard described at a speedup process on June 18, 1948.

Before Hickenlooper brought this up, Lillenthal had testified that the AEC is keeping some persons with doubtful records on the payroll because that seems safer than firing them.

He said some got their jobs when the Army was running the atomic projects.

Under questioning from a senate-house committee, the AEC chairman said he knows the atomic developments are a "primary target" for communist spy activity.

But Lillenthal insisted, there are some circumstances where persons with doubtful records should be kept at work.

As examples, he said some persons were cleared for work under war-time Army control and have learned atomic secrets.

With "certain precautions," he said the employment of these persons was continued. He added, however, that if they had applied for jobs after the division commission was in control, the AEC probably would not have been willing to take "the calculated risk" the Army did in hiring them.

The senate-house atomic energy committee is investigating the commission's policies and work as a result of charges by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) that there has been "incredible mismanagement," under Lillenthal, Hickenlooper demands that Lillenthal be fired.

Much of the inquiry has centered around the question of how well the commission has been guarding this country's atomic secrets.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, has suggested that congress send a little FBI—with somebody like J. Edgar Hoover in charge—to head up atomic security.

 Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Donnie's classmates at South Lockett school will be pallbearers. For weeks the boy had alternately rallied and then weakened. Only yesterday he seemed strong enough to talk to his parents. He asked about his pet cow "Old Jersey" and his dog. He worried about "Old Jersey" and didn't want anyone else to miller.

It was 27 days ago that a brother accidentally tossed blazing gasoline on Donnie. The boys were burning weeds.

Last night the family was called to Donnie's bedside and his father, James W. Woodard, said he didn't think the boy would last much longer.

Donnie suddenly began sinking after being reported some improved during the day. He was given blood transfusion at noon yesterday.

Word of Donnie's death spread quickly at dawn in this small North Texas town.

Oxygen tent ever since he was burned. He was given frequent blood transfusions, though it was difficult for physicians to find a vein under his scalded skin.

Late last night Donnie said "I want to live. I know they say I can't live, but, gee, I sure want to." Shortly after 8 p. m. last night Donnie began gasping.

The physician told his parents "I don't believe he will last more than an hour."

But Donnie kept on living, fighting for breath, was conscious and spoke rationally.

Later, he slipped into a coma. His parents and six brothers were at the bedside when the end came.

Texas Highway Map For 1949 Is Distributed Free

AUSTIN, June 4.—(Sp.)—The 1949 Texas Highway Map comes off the presses today ready for free distribution by the Texas Highway Department. Showing 31,000 miles of completed Texas highways over 3000 miles, the map is illustrated with drawings and 30 full color pictures.

A panel is devoted this year to travel attractions in Mexico on the Pan-American Highway, with particular attention given to prehistoric ruins. This highway, which dissects Texas, north to south, now runs to Tuxtla, almost in Central America. Texas will be the highway state in future travel on this international road.

Complete mileage tables of comparative distances between Texas cities and between state capitals outside of Texas to border points in Texas are given. Mileages from Laredo south to points on the Pan American Highway are included.

A United States road map, showing major national highways, is on the back of the Texas map.

Governor Beauford Jester's message to Texas travelers prefaces the edition.

X-Ray Will Show

Bronchiectasis
 By W. P. BROWN
 Of Johnson's Pharmacy

This ailment is caused by a swelling and congestion of the bronchial tubes, and lungs. Persons suffering from bronchiectasis often have an annoying cough and bring up large quantities of mucus.

With the new developments in X-ray, it is possible for a doctor to distinguish this condition from other bronchial and lung diseases, and thus treatment is more direct and effective.

Your doctor may find a lung or bronchial condition that you believe to be just a persistent cough. Early diagnosis means early recovery.

Medicine as recommended by your physician is invaluable in treatment if it is skillfully compounded.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Frank Sinatra To Have Anniversary At Atlantic City

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 6 (AP)—Frank Sinatra will mark his 10th anniversary in show business during a concert engagement June 25 at Atlantic City's Steel Pier.

He has asked his fan clubbers all over the world to send him post cards depicting their home towns. After he reads them, the cards will be sent to children's wards in hospitals.

Now a million-dollar industry, Sinatra has come a long way since he decided to abandon sports writing for singing 10 years ago.

Gregory Peck has been reading "The Glass Menagerie" script and he may do the film after "12 O'Clock High." That would add up to a high-voltage cast. Already set are Jane Wyman as the daughter and Jack Carson as the caller. Helen Hayes and Tallulah Bankhead are being sought for the mother role.

Jack Carson is warring with Warners. He objects to being the studio's utility man while other male stars get the acting plums. He would like to do one high comedy, one low comedy and one drama a year. But he hasn't been given a drama since "Mildred Pierce."

Paulette Goddard claims she has no money mind, but what other stars get paid $50,000 for doing? That's what she collected for not doing "Yellow Sky." After she was signed, tests showed she wasn't right for the role. Anne Baxter substituted.

Ray Milland, who has the fishing bug, takes off soon for Bahia and ocean fishing and then East Yellowstone and trout. Ray asked for some photos of his action scenes in "Copper Canyon." It seems his son is a Gary Cooper fan and Ray wanted to prove he can be as rugged.

Sam Goldwyn may shelve his "Earth and High Heaven," for which he paid a heavy sum. He can't get a workable script, and there have been too many other films on intolerance.

Dallas Hotels To Have More Rooms In Near Future

DALLAS, June 6 (AP)—Dallas hotel accommodations are due to be expanded by 800 to 1,000 rooms in the near future.

The purchase was made over the week end and Corrigan immediately announced that he would add 500 to 600 rooms to the 825-room hotel. He did not say when the building would start but it will not be immediately.

The Baker is expected to announce this week that it will add 300 to 400 rooms on the lot east of the hotel.

Children Of U. S. Give $6,000,000 For Overseas Aid

It takes a lot of nickels and dimes to make $6,000,000 but that is the value of school and health supplies shipped overseas by American boys and girls in the past year. The names of international friends of the American Junior Red Cross National Children's Fund.

The urgent need for such practical necessities as paper, soap, pencils, and toothbrushes is revealed in hundreds of letters from the children of the American Junior Red Cross National Children's Fund.

Sent From Schools.

About half of these overseas gifts have gone in small gift boxes which American students pack themselves. Several high schools have made and filled large wooden chests with equipment needed by a classroom of 50 pupils. They contain books, maps, globes, and other school supplies. The remainder has been sent in bulk shipments, purchased through the American Junior Red Cross National Children's Fund.

"Thank you" letters written in many languages reach the national headquarters offices of the American Junior Red Cross in Washington at the rate of 300 per day.

Allen E. Bryant Elected Chairman Of Permanent Tri-City Organization; To Push Program For Soil Conservation of Ennis and Corsicana. Waxahachie, a part of the geographical triangle, was unable to send representatives because of previous commitments.

At the head of the permanent group is Allen E. Bryant, Corsicana, who farms at Ennis, and preaches the doctrine of soil conservation at any convenient spot. He was elected chairman of the tri-city committee after a nominating committee submitted his name.

John Arden of Waxahachie was named vice chairman, and W. F. Dickson of Ennis, secretary. Dickson is manager of the Ennis Chamber of Commerce.

The nominating committee consisted of O. L. Albrighton, Hugh Walker and A. D. Leatherman of Ennis.

There was one dissenting vote as the group overwhelmingly approved:

(1) Construction of the Chambers Creek and Richland Creek dams; and
(2) Enactment of the $10,000,000 state soil conservation bill that has passed the senate.

Several Ennis residents voted against the dams, but joined others on the second issue, declaring that they would support soil conservation if they knew more about those dams first.

Robert N. Tharp of Fort Worth, educational director of the Trinity Improvement Assn., told the group that is really, practical at this stage of the game.

He praised the plan of the group to spread the gospel of soil conservation in the entire area, and held with leaders that it is better to build dams without soil conservation as a blended part.

Have been working with dams for 20 years, he said, "If all communities had followed the procedure you are following here, it would have been no job at all."

He said that he was a single precedent, leaders on the Trinity River having banded

Soil Going Down—Population Going Up—This Presents Biggest Problem

The soil is going down; the population is going up, and this is the biggest problem facing the field of agriculture, Soil Conservation Commissioner Jack Everheart declared here Thursday night.

Addressing members of the Navarro County Agricultural Workers Association, Everheart said studies of both the land and the population have caused this question to be asked:

How long will meat and farm products be plentiful to feed the world?

The population study, Everheart disclosed, that within 30 years there will be 4 1/2 billion people in the world to feed, compared with 2 1/2 billion now.

As for the land study, he added, "Everyone of you know what's happening to the soil." He referred to erosion and non-scientific farming.

Americans eat approximately 147 pounds of meat per person per year, he said. If all the people were divided among the peoples of the world it would amount to about 50 pounds or less per person per year.

The conservationist said the government in recent years has realized the necessity of working to improve the soil. He speculated that in the future years the people will look back to 1949 and remark that well off people were in the field of agriculture—just as the people of the past were more fertile and productive.

Everheart was introduced by Hardy Butler, program chairman for the monthly meeting, which was held at the Navarro County Cactus Room.

The general theme of the session was the association itself, and the need for its members to acquaint themselves with the work of the association.

Guests at the meeting included J. Sewell of Blooming Grove; Charles E. Blooming Grove; Bill Eckhardt; and D. H. Taylor of the Soil Conservation Service in Fort Worth; and Mrs. Lee Bonner of Eureka.

Just Heat Those Hot Coals On Willie; $2 More Of Trouble Can't Hurt Much

By BOB CAMPBELL

"Thin Shoe" Willie beat de law Friday.

He beat it by reason of not being able to produce his body in court, a necessary requirement to get a legal case out of a case without the body is practically no case at all, even if the body is still pulsating with the constant throbs of life.

City Recorder Clay Nash filed an envelope Friday morning and scowled at the scrawl. The letter was returned to him by the couriers of the United States Post Office department. It said something, but Judge Nash, his brows knit and his eyes drawn close, couldn't quite tell what.

Bystanders finally figured it that the scrawl said "No Such Thing" and it meant no such number. His mood was further darkened.

CAT MOTHERS COTTONTAIL RABBIT—A white cat with three kittens has adopted a nine-day-old cottontail rabbit and nurtures and cares for it as if it was another kitten. The strange family is a part of the small menagerie maintained by A. W. Wareing at his Magnolia Filling Station near the Corsicana. The bunny is shown above, once feeding and the other scrambling on the soft fur of his foster mother. The feline washes the rabbit as her kittens.

and when displeased with the undue attention her strange family elicited, stole away and hid her kittens and the rabbit on a high shelf in the station away from the prying eyes of people. Wareing also has a couple of monkeys who own full suits of clothing, a grown opossum found under a hood of an automobile as he serviced the vehicle, two raccoons, two half-grown opossums, and several wild mallard ducks, not to mention about 85 or 90 domesticated rabbits. Tribute Is Paid To Memory Of Tyson; Funeral Rites Here

By PAUL MOORE Daily Star Staff

Texasans of high and low stations paid fitting tribute to Tom L. Tyson Friday at his funeral rites in Corsicana and Calvert.

Tyson, aged 44, "couragous Christian and churchman," political figure, civic leader and Sunday school teacher, lawyer, died with a heart attack Thursday morning at his home.

Funeral services were held from the First Baptist church here at 10 a. m. and from the First Baptist church in Calvert at 3 p. m.

Dr. Jared L. Carlidge, pastor of the local church, conducted both services and eulogized the chairman of the board of deacons of the local congregation and teacher of the Pals class for his varied interests and activities, stressing his work as a "Christian and churchman."

Reserved sections were provided for the bar association and Pals class.

The services began with the pastor leading the group into the church where an estimated 700 friends and acquaintances were gathered, followed by the pallbearers, Governor Beauford Jester and then the immediate family and the Dawson family.

The choir rendered "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Rock of Ages." Flowers covered the front of the pulpit and choir locations and were banked alongside the walls of the main auditorium.

Following a prayer, the pastor referred to the custom of Tyson in writing a letter requesting Scriptures to be read before his Sunday school class. He read the ones sent to him as follows: Matthew 10th chapter 29-31 and 39 verses:

"Are not two sparrows sold for a penny? and not one of them shall fall on the ground without our Father's notice. But the hairs of your head are numbered. Fear not, therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows. He that findeth his life shall lose it and he that loseth his life for me shall find it. Romans: 8th chapter, 35-39 verses:

"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or anguish, or persecution, or nakedness, or nakedness, or death, or sword? Even as it is written, 'For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we were accounted as sheep for the slaughter.' 'In all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.'"

Dr. Carlidge urged the bowing submissively to the will of the Lord and then spoke of the loss to the family relatives and friends of the "good husband and father and loved one."

"Texas has lost one of her outstanding citizens and the church one of its most capable members and I have lost a friend, indeed," Dr. Carlidge stated, and then quoted the following Scripture: "Know ye not a prince has fallen this day in Israel."

Dr. Carlidge then spoke of what the people were thinking of Tom Tyson—some as a man, others as a political figure, brilliant lawyer, etc., but said he thought of him "a good man full of the Holy Ghost."

Dr. Carlidge said that many disagreed with Tyson politically or otherwise, but no one will find fault with his moral life, and termed him as "a silver-tongued orator who could weave words into garlands of rhetoric." He believed in righteousness in high and low places.

Speaking of the courage of the departed churchman, the minister asserted:

"The Undying Debt of gratitude to Tyson for what he has done for the party during the past few years."

Then Dr. Carlidge said that long after the other accomplishments are forgotten, his influence as a Christian and a churchman will continue.

The day Tyson was first stricken, he was en route to Moody with state lawson, a partner on Buckner home business, Dr. Carlidge stated and added:

"Texas has never produced a more eloquent or a better Sunday school teacher. He magnified the
